I was having trouble with Kerio connector trying to Sync more than 5% of of my Calendars. I viewed what was going to be change. Kerio connector was going to add 6 hours to every calendar event. With no help in the forums I started fooling around changing the time zone support in iCal. This had no effect. So after making sure everything was backed up through TimeMachine I restored the information on the Kerio server with the information on my mac.

Go to System Preferences then click on Advanced:

Select where you want to Sync from. I recommend your mac if you are sure it has the correct dates.

Thats it. Should fix all your problems.
